

Sculpture Park

The Sculpture Park is situated across the University Campus. There are 350 acres of attractive parkland open to everyone to enjoy art, architecture and the natural environment. Curated by the Sainsbury Centre, sculpture is selected to complement the landscape and listed built environment. There are formal gardens adjacent to the Sainsbury Centre, dense urban modernist architecture and areas of tranquillity along the Yare river valley. As well as great art, there is architecture by leading architects such as Foster, Lasdun and Mather. The park is also home for our resident population of wild rabbits and habitats for rare and endangered species. There is a wide range of fauna and flora including a number of remarkable ancient oaks. As well as works by Moore, Gormley and Frink, there are new works by Laurence Edwards, John Davies, Anthony Caro and Rebecca Warren.

Environment
Within just a few metres of the strikingly modern Sainsbury Centre is an ancient oak tree that is over 400 years old. This living sculpture supports an ecosystem and a habitat rich in biodiversity. Oak trees support more life forms than any other native tree. 10

Please look after yourself and the artworks, do not touch or climb on the sculptures.
